For Sask. siblings, all roads lead to Dief

Who's your daddy?

Goertzen brothers the latest to claim lineage to ex-PM John Diefenbaker, with revelation he may have sired two boys

Twice-married former Canadian prime minister John Diefenbaker of Saskatchewan — always believed to have been childless — may have fathered two sons, leaving progeny scattered across the country, The Canadian Press has learned.

It's a labyrinthine tale of adoptions and broken and reconstituted families, whose quest to uncover their roots turned up "Dief" as a common thread.

About 10 years ago, in Western Canada, the three Goertzen siblings began searching for their biological father, Ed Thorne, who had split from their mom four decades earlier.

Stan Goertzen, 52, a retired member of the Saskatoon Police Service, found Thorne in Kamloops, B.C. He made a startling discovery.

"He says, 'Oh, and my biological family has found me, too,'" Goertzen said of Thorne, who died soon after.

"That's the first time I found out he was adopted."

Separately and coincidentally, Ruthann Malmgren, 70, of Rockyford, Alta., had also been looking for Thorne on behalf of her mother, Mary Rosa LaMarche, who had given him up for adoption.

LaMarche had been Diefenbaker's housekeeper in Prince Albert in the late 1930s.

At the time, Diefenbaker was having marital difficulties, according to Simma Holt's biography of his first wife, Edna Diefenbaker. His eye apparently rested on his housekeeper, whom Malmgren described as "free and easy."

In 1938, LaMarche fell pregnant and John was born in February 1939. His birth certificate did not list a father.

The baby, John Eric LaMarche, was adopted and renamed Edward Thorne.

Malmgren tracked Thorne down to Kamloops and, through him, connected with Stan Goertzen around 2003. She told him his biological father, Thorne, was Diefenbaker's son.

"I laughed my tail off,"

Stan Goertzen, centre, is seen with his brothers Lawrence, left, and Darrell in this undated family handout. The Saskatchewan siblings believe they are grandsons of former prime minister John Diefenbaker. Their DNA matches that of George Dryden in Toronto, who believes he is Diefenbaker's son. THE CANADIAN PRESS HANDOUT

Goertzen said. "I thought, 'You've got to be kidding me.'"

Enter George Dryden, 45, who grew up in a Toronto family only to discover a few years ago that the man who raised him — prominent federal Liberal Gordon Dryden — was not his father.

That revelation prompted Dryden to go on a well-publicized quest to confirm long-time family whispers: that he is the product of an affair between his mother, Mary Lou Dryden, and Diefenbaker, a known confidante.

Dryden, who bears a strong resemblance to the former Conservative prime minister, believes previous genetic matching with a Diefenbaker relative proves the family connection.

Back in Saskatchewan, Lawrence Goertzen, Stan's brother, saw a chance to check on the link to Diefenbaker, who led the country from 1957 to 1963 and died in 1979.

Stan and Lawrence Goertzen, 48, who does aircraft repairs at Saskatoon's John G. Diefenbaker Airport, sent body samples to a DNA lab. So did Dryden.

The result this month stunned them all.

"We're talking about 99.99 per cent probability that they are related," said Kyle Tsui at Toronto-based Accu-Metrics, which did the tests.

Dryden called the test a "very nice surprise, an early Christmas present."

"I got a feeling there might be Diefenbabies running around all over the place," Dryden said.

Residents evacuate as gas leak prompts fear of fire, explosion

No injuries. People kept out of six apartment buildings and a business during hours-long repair

jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

Several residences and a business were emptied out after construction workers nicked a high-pressure gas line Thursday afternoon.

Around 2:42 p.m., Saskatoon Fire and Protective Services (SFPS) responded to the corner of Main Street and Preston Avenue.

High concentrations of natural gas were found in the area. Firefighters evacuated six apartment buildings on Main Street as well as the Great Canadian Superstore on 8th Street.

"It was like ants all over the place," said assistant chief Bill Coffin.

People were unable to return home for hours until SaskEnergy isolated and shut down the damaged line.

Prevention

Saskatoon Fire and Protective Services are reminding everyone to ensure they dial before they dig to learn the locations of underground lines.

"They can't just stick their heads in there and have a look," said Coffin.

An SFPS news release stated city police and MD ambulance were also on the scene to help develop "an action plan for the repair of the main."

Assistant chief Glen Ledray said the gas had the potential to start a fire or explosion.

However, he said the dangers were limited "because of the evacuations and the wind."

Roadblocks were set up on Preston Avenue from 14th Street to 8th street as well as on Main Street from Sommerfeld Avenue to Kirk Crescent.

No one was injured during the incident, and residents were allowed back into their homes shortly before 8 p.m.

SaskEnergy employees near the intersection of Preston Avenue and Main Street where a loud hissing was heard Thursday afternoon. Saskatoon Fire and Protective Services say the source was a damaged high-pressure gas line, which forced an evacuation of nearby apartments and a Great Canadian Superstore. MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO

Lengthy tests needed after deaths of twin babies

It could take months for the provincial coroner's office to determine what caused the deaths of twin baby boys at a First Nation in west-central Saskatchewan.

After conducting autopsies on Wednesday in Saskatoon, the coroner's office announced on Thursday that it will hold off on declaring the official causes of death until receiving the results of a toxicology test, a microscopic examination, microbiology cultures and a neuropathology examination — which could take as long as three months.

"The death of the two infants is abnormal, and our policy dictates we treat all

Suspicion

Despite the involvement of an RCMP major-crimes unit, police say the investigation has not immediately been considered a crime.

deaths as suspicious," Sgt.

Craig Cleary, spokesman for Saskatchewan RCMP, told Metro on Thursday.

Cleary added that this kind of wait is common.

"I would estimate that anywhere between one and three months is pretty typical," he said.

On Monday, the two seven-month-old brothers were taken by ambulance to a health centre in Loon Lake from nearby Makwa Sahgaiehan First Nation, after a family member called 911.

RCMP visited the First Nation, about a 90-minute drive northwest of North Battleford, on Tuesday to gather information.

Sask.'s sci-fi star gets herself a Golden Globe nomination

Tatiana Maslany.

Locals say her talent was obvious long before big role on Orphan Black

SARAH

sarah.taguiam@metronews.ca

Reginans are over the moon after local star Tatiana Maslany was nominated for a Golden Globe as best actress in a television drama series.

Regina-born Maslany's portrayal of multiple clones with different personalities in the Canadian-produced science-fiction program Orphan Black has been lauded by critics and friends alike.

"She was one of the most talented students I've ever had the pleasure of teaching," said Dan MacDonald, who taught Maslany drama and creative writing at Dr. Martin LeBoldus High School.

"She had a strong sense of irony, a high maturity level and a really interesting view on things."

Maslany was big into acting while attending LeBoldus. She became a top contender in the Canadian Improv Games and went on to the local General Fools Improvisational Theatre.

General Fools director Jayden Pfeifer fondly recalls hundreds of hours practicing onstage with Maslany.

"Tatiana's an amazing actress and an all-around incredible human being," Pfeifer said.

Maslany is vying for the award against Taylor Schilling of Orange Is the New Black, Kerry Washington of Scandal, Julianna Margulies of The Good Wife and Robin Wright of House of Cards.

Talented people like Maslany, MacDonald said, could succeed anywhere. He added, though, that growing up in Regina's arts community helped hone her talents.

"Regina has always had a really strong background in theatre and drama that not many people know about," MacDonald said.

"If the kids want to, they could go places — and that's certainly what Tatiana did."

Government, opposition clash over pediatric care

Newly unveiled plans to centralize hospital pediatric care in Regina and shift intensive care for children in the province to Saskatoon, has the government and opposition at odds.

Health Minister Dustin Duncan said Thursday that the recommendation from the Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region (RQHR) to move pediatric care out of Pasqua Hospital to a central unit at Regina General Hospital will improve safety and "better meet the health needs of children in southern Saskatchewan."

He explained that concentrating the intensive care in Saskatoon will merely formalize an existing policy. He noted that the province already sends critically ill children to Saskatoon and to Stollery Children's Hospital in Edmonton.

Both proposals were unveiled Wednesday at a special public RQHR board meeting.

Duncan also took aim at a press release from the opposition New Democrats accusing the government of "dismissing the needs of patients" by making the changes.

The minister said he is "profoundly shocked and disappointed" that the opposition would "disregard" the views of experts in the field, who he argued played a large role in a consultation process before the decision was made.

NDP health critic Danielle Chartier, however, claimed it's the government that is ignoring stakeholders by failing to reach out to families that would be impacted by the move.

"When you want to do these big changes ... you need to ensure you have many different stakeholders at the table," Chartier added.

The phased-in changes are to begin next June following renovations at Regina General to establish a unit for high-acuity care. MARCO VIGLIOTTI

Lost wolf sculpture found at University of Saskatchewan

INFRA installation.

Thief might have had change of heart about stolen art: City official

MORGAN MODJESKI
morgan.modjeski@metronews.ca

A Saskatoon art theft that left Ontario artist Tonya Hart devastated now has a happy ending, as a stolen sculpture that's been missing for almost a month has been returned.

The INFRA installation, made up of 10 life-sized fibreglass and polyurethane resin wolves, is part of the city's Placemaker Public Art program. Some time between Nov. 13 and 14, two of the wolves were damaged and one was stolen from College Drive near Bottomley Avenue.

However, on Wednesday, the sculpture was found in a University of Saskatchewan parking lot by campus security and Hart said she was "elated" to have the piece returned.

"It was unexpected, to say the least," she said in an interview from Toronto. "The (installation) has been in storage and I hadn't heard anything all month, so it was a big surprise."

Hart said though she was concerned about the condition of the piece, she was happy to have it back, adding she doesn't know what she would say to the culprit — besides an initial "thank you."

"It's really unfortunate because I think it was probably just a whim and a gag," she said.

"They were probably drunk."

Kevin Kitchen, manager of community initiatives with the city, said there were some "minor damages" to the sculpture, but the fact that the piece was left in such a visible spot indicates the culprit might have had a change of heart about the stolen art.

"We're grateful to U of S campus security — they did find the sculpture in a parking lot on the campus so that leads us to believe that it was meant to be found," he said. "So someone out there did maybe have a conscience and felt the wolf should be reunited with the rest of the pack."

The sculpture will now be installed on top of the permanent bathroom facilities at the Cameco Meevasin Skating Rink at PotashCorp Plaza from Dec. 16 until the end of April.

CPP board buying Saskatchewan farmland assets

The Canada Pension Plan Investment Board says it has acquired the assets of Assiniboia Farmland LP, a fund manager that owns a portfolio of agricultural lands, for up to $128 million.

The deal includes 115,000 acres of Saskatchewan farmland producing wheat, barley and canola.

Pending adjustments, the agreement is expected to close in January 2014, with the current management team continuing to oversee the portfolio.

CPPIB says farmland is an "attractive asset class" for the board because it delivers historically "stable, risk-adjusted returns" as demand for agricultural products continue to grow.

The CPPIB, one of the world's largest pension funds, invests money not needed by the Canada Pension Plan to pay benefits for some 18 million current and retired contributors.

CPPIB had net assets of $192.8 billion as of Sept. 30, up from $188.9 billion at the end of the previous quarter.

"Farmland investments align well with CPPIB's long-term investment strategy while also further diversifying our portfolio," said André Bourbonnais, senior vice-president of private investments.

On Wednesday, the board announced that it had purchased a 15 per cent stake in ORPEA S.A., a long-term care provider in Europe, for approximately $468.2 million.

The deal amounts to it buying nearly eight million shares of ORPEA at a price of 40.34 euros per share, or a total of 320.8 million euros, said the CPPIB.

It also plans to underwrite a primary share capital increase of up to 100 million euros to help the company develop its business.

Paris-based ORPEA was founded in 1989 and provides nursing, post-acute care, rehabilitation and psychiatric services in France, Belgium, Spain, Italy and Switzerland.

Village braces for Mandela funeral

Massive event. Final goodbye comes with major challenges for tiny Qunu

KIERON MONKS
Metro World News

The population of Qunu is just under 300, but a mass invasion is underway ahead of Nelson Mandela's funeral Sunday, when the Eastern Cape village where Madiba grew up hosts one of the largest events in South African history.

"There is a lot of people and a lot of disruption," said a spokesperson at the Nelson Mandela Museum, the largest building in Qunu, which has become the site of a marquee for the world's media.

Quoted

"Everything is in order there, and we are ready to warmly welcome our guests."

Nomakhosazana Meth, municipality mayor

Much larger temporary structures are being hastily constructed to host the ceremony and its 5,000 guests, with officials admitting work is behind schedule. Eleven venues in the local area will screen the funeral for those unable to attend, with up to 70,000 expected, and accommodation prices rising sharply across the region.

Roads leading to the village will be blocked, and the local airport in Mthatha will be reserved for around 100 private jets.

Schizophrenia. Sign-language interpreter says he was hallucinating

The man accused of faking sign interpretation while standing alongside world leaders like U.S. President Barack Obama at Nelson Mandela's memorial service said Thursday he hallucinated that angels were entering the stadium, has schizophrenia and has been violent in the past.

Thamsanqa Jantjie said in an interview that his hallucinations began while he was interpreting and that he tried not to panic because there were "armed policemen around me." He added that he was once hospitalized in a mental health facility for more than one and a half years.

The statements by Jantjie also raise serious security issues for Obama, other heads of state and United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon who stood next to Jantjie as they made speeches at FNB Stadium in Soweto, Johannesburg's famed black township.

A South African deputy Cabinet minister, Hendrietta Bogopane-Zulu, later held a news conference to announce that "a mistake happened" in the hiring of Jantjie. However, many questions remain, including who in the government hired the company that contracted Jantjie, how much money the government paid the company and Jantjie's own involvement with the company — and even whether it really exists.

AP journalists who visited the address of the company

Quoted

"This does not look like anything I have seen in signers with psychosis."

Jo Atkinson, clinical psychologist and researcher at the Center for Deafness, Cognition and Language, on Thamsanqa Jantjie's signing that Jantjie provided found a different company there, whose managers said they knew nothing about SA Interpreters. A woman who answered the phone at a number that Jantjie provided confirmed that she worked at the company that hired him for the memorial service but declined comment and hung up.

Government officials said they have tried to track down the company that provided Jantjie but the owners "have vanished into thin air," said Bogopane-Zulu, deputy minister of Women, Children and People with Disabilities.

A medical expert with University College London cautioned that Jantjie's unusual sign language didn't look like it was caused by schizophrenia or another psychosis.

"The disruption of sign language in people with schizophrenia takes many forms but this does not look like anything I have seen in signers with psychosis," said Jo Atkinson, who is a clinical psychologist and researcher at the Center for Deafness, Cognition and Language. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anti-government protests continue in Thailand

A protester uses a pair of wire cutters to snap and remove barbed wire erected by Thai police over the fence of the prime minister's office in Bangkok on Thursday. Protesters waging a surreal political fight to oust Thailand's elected prime minister are trying to establish what amounts to a parallel government — one complete with "security volunteers" to replace the police, a foreign policy of their own and a central committee that has already begun issuing audacious orders. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Italy. Tensions grow as 'Pitchfork Protests' over economy gain momentum

For the first time in the five years of Italy's economic crisis, grass-roots protests expressing frustration if not deep anger at the political class are spreading across the country.

Their singular aim: To send all the politicians home in hopes of ending the country's malaise.

The so-called "Pitchfork Protests," — the name evoking a peasant uprising — moved into their fourth day Thursday. The protests reflect Italy's two-year recession, which has seen unemployment rise to a post-war high of 12.5 per cent, with youth unemployment running at a record 40 per cent.

These protests are not organized by any political movement or labour union, but are erupting from a collection of disaffected workers, business owners and youth.

While it is early to gauge the potential impact of the protests, observers have expressed concern that the deep mistrust of all of Italy's institutions being expressed could transform the demonstrations into something much more dangerous.

On Wednesday, police used tear gas to disband demonstrators trying to block the border to France at the north western town of Ventimiglia.

Some demonstrators have even intimidated business owners into shutting down by threatening to break their windows, according to Italian news reports.

eyes, but do not restore vision. Doctors plan to fit Binbin with navigation sensors next summer that would allow him to get around on his own in familiar places.

Police in the boy's hometown in northern China's Shanxi province say they suspect his aunt was the culprit in the attack, although they have not identified a motive. The woman has since committed suicide, and Binbin's parents have raised doubts.

On Thursday, the boy's mother said Binbin can put on his clothes, brush his teeth and climb stairs by himself, according to reports in Hong Kong media.

"He has adapted well and is smart," his mother, Wang Wenli, said before thanking the medical staff.

The attack on the boy horrified the Chinese public and added to outrage over violence against children. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Documents leaked by whistleblower Edward Snowden have revealed how the U.S. government is tracking mobile phone locations, monitoring email and even infiltrating video game networks.

The U.S. is not alone in spying on citizens. A multitude of governments and businesses in Canada track in a variety of ways that concern security experts and civil libertarians.

"We're able to see how many mundane and personal aspects of life are recorded and retained," said Adam Molnar, a postdoctoral fellow in Queen's University's Surveillance Studies Centre.

In Canada, DNA is only collected from convicts. The RCMP wants Ottawa to allow it to take swabs from anyone who is arrested.

Our products can be used for good or bad: CEO

Alexander Fernandes had a dream in 2004 to build a better surveillance camera.

His B.C.-based Avigilon Corp. now sells high definition systems with up to 29 megapixel resolution and wants to dominate a global market forecast to be worth $30 billion by 2016.

"A camera by itself is just a paperweight in the context of security and surveillance," chairman and CEO Fernandes told Metro. "You need to be able to record all that video, search it, retransmit it over the Internet, in some cases view it remotely. We've created the world's first from-the-ground-up video surveillance system."

TSX-traded Avigilon is valued at nearly $1.27 billion. Revenue increased from $60 million to $100.3 million last year. Systems cost as little as $500, but the company boasts multimillion-dollar clients such as the Rogers Centre in Toronto, San Diego Metro Transit Au-

Fernandes calls video surveillance a "platform for honest people and honest businesses to protect themselves from bad people doing bad things to good people."

"I'm a private citizen as well so I don't necessarily want people looking in on my private space. At the same time I've got children and I want some sense of them being reasonably safe going about their day-to-day livelihood catching the bus and going to school," he said.

Video surveillance is a tool, like a car or hammer, that can be used for good or bad, he said.

Closed-circuit TV footage helped identify 2011 Stanley Cup rioters and led to the arrest of a Surrey man police believe sexually assaulted a woman who mistook a black minivan for a taxi on Oct. 12 in Gastown.

Allan Bosomworth, co-owner of Vancouver's now defunct Two Chefs and a Table, was accused in September of hiding a camera in the restaurant's bathroom to record below-the-waist images. His next court date is Dec. 11.

North Korea executes Kim Jong-un's uncle

Pyongyang. News report calls him 'a traitor to the nation' and 'worse than a dog'

North Korea on Friday announced the execution of Kim Jong-un's uncle, calling the leader's former mentor a traitor who tried to overthrow the state.

The announcement came only days after Pyongyang announced through state media that Jang Song Thaek — long considered the country's No. 2 power — had been removed from all his posts because of allegations of corruption, drug use, gambling, womanizing and leading a "dissolute and depraved life."

The state news agency KCNA said a tribunal examined Jang's crimes, including

"attempting to overthrow the state by all sorts of intrigues and despicable methods with a wild ambition to grab the supreme power of our party and state."

Jang was seen as helping Kim Jong-un consolidate power after the death of his father, Kim Jong-il, two years ago. Jang was the latest and most significant in a series of personnel reshuffles that Kim has conducted in an apparent effort to bolster his power.

Some analysts see the purge as a sign of Kim Jong-un's growing confidence, but there has also been fear in Seoul that the removal of such an important part of the North's government — seen by outsiders as the leading supporter of Chinese-style economic reforms — could create dangerous instability or lead to a miscalculation or attack on the South.

Ukraine will sign EU deal: Deputy PM

Ukraine's deputy prime minister said Thursday his financially troubled country will soon sign a trade and co-operation deal with the EU after the bloc promised more aid to the former Soviet republic.

Serhiy Arbusov's comment came after a day of talks with EU Commissioner Stefan Fuele in Brussels, which were being closely watched by anti-government protesters in Ukraine who are demanding such a deal.

For weeks, activists have been amassed in Kyiv to protest Viktor Yanukovich's decision regarding the EU deal.

They are concerned that he could instead sign an agreement to join a Russian-led customs union when he and Russian President Vladimir Putin meet next week.

Rob Ford. Reporter serves mayor libel notice

Mayor Rob Ford was slapped with a libel notice late Thursday for televised comments he made about a reporter, who said the remarks amounted to an accusation of pedophilia.

Toronto Star reporter Daniel Dale would not comment on his suit that also names Vision TV, which aired the Ford interview, saying an article he wrote for his newspaper would have to stand.

"I'm asking Ford to immediately retract the false insinuation that I am a pedophile. I am also serving Vision TV, which twice broadcast Ford's vile and defamatory remarks ... even though their interview was filmed days before it aired," Dale wrote.

Ford said a day after the interview that he stood by "every word."

In the interview broadcast Monday, Ford told host Conrad Black that Dale had perpetrated the worst invasion of his privacy during a May 2012 incident.

"Daniel Dale is in my backyard taking pictures. I have little kids. He's taking pictures of little kids," Ford said.

Dale maintains he was writing a story about a plot of public land adjacent to Ford's house that the mayor wanted to buy, so he went to take a look, then the mayor emerged from his home to confront him.

Mayor goes to police with corruption scheme

Quebec's anti-corruption squad, known as UPAC, is giving Chateauguay Mayor Nathalie Simon full marks for filing a complaint with police this past September.

The mayor was hailed as a hero Thursday as the unit announced four arrests in a corruption sweep in the working-class town south of Montreal. Police allege the four men were trying to corrupt Simon with money and personal favours in exchange for decisions that would lead to influential positions within the city's administration or to land re-zoning for development projects.

Doritos execs dust off, offer up more wacky eats

Next from the PepsiCo food innovation lab...

On the heels of Doritos Locos Tacos prepare for chip-topped wings and Mountain Dew sauces Dorito dust may be the new salt for more restaurant chains.

PepsiCo Inc., which owns Cheetos, Fritos, Tostitos and other snacks, found success last year after teaming up with Taco Bell to create Dorito-flavoured taco shells. And it has since been dreaming up other restaurant dishes featuring its popular snacks.

The company announced Thursday that it struck a deal to serve its drinks at Buffalo Wild Wings. PepsiCo also said it would work with the sports-centric chain to create "unique menu offerings."

Buffalo Wild Wings CEO Sally Smith said she visited PepsiCo's food innovation lab in New York and was shown several dishes the chain might put on its menu. Ideas included Doritos as a crunchy topping for wings or tenders, or even just offering potato chips as a side dish. Smith said she was shown salad dressings and sandwich and chicken wing sauces that incorporate PepsiCo's sodas, including Mountain Dew.

"I don't think it will be in the next 12 months, but we'll possibly start testing after a year or 18 months,"

So crazy, it worked

Over at Taco Bell, Doritos Locos Tacos continue to be a considerable sales driver.

- Taco Bell CEO Greg Creed has noted that a major advantage of the tacos is that competitors can't replicate them — their success is largely tied to the popularity of the Doritos brand.
- The latest partnership with Buffalo Wild Wings is just the latest sign that PepsiCo is trying to use the strength of its Frito-Lay business to bolster its beverage unit, which has long trailed Coca-Cola.

- A representative for Pizza Hut also told the AP the chain has looked at ways to use Frito-Lay snacks in its menu. Pizza Hut is owned by Yum Brands, which owns Taco Bell and KFC as well.

THE GOOD PEOPLE WANT GANJA

1 Asian cockroaches. A new species has been discovered in the Big Apple. Recently identified by scientists as Periplaneta japonica, a genus native to Japan, the insect is known in China and Korea for its ability to survive in cold climates. New Yorkers remain unfazed by news of another living creature trying to survive and breed in their city.

2 Grounded. Last Friday, Tom Wagner fell asleep on a flight to Houston. He was overlooked by staff and awoke to find himself trapped in the dark aircraft. He called his girlfriend and she notified the airline, who eventually rescued him. Counter-terrorism agencies expressed concern over the news but airport security assured them that Wagner had nothing in his shoes and did not have a bottle of water.

3 Mama knows. Mothers' favourite gift this year is the FiLiP smartwatch. A colourful wristwatch doubling as a phone with voice and GPS so parents can keep track of their kids at all times. American women are currently lobbying for this same technology to be used in wedding rings.

4 Everything I (Think I) Am. Kanye West is the world's greatest artist. Just ask him. He appeared at his Texas concert wearing a mask and someone shouted, "Take it off." After having security eject the paid-ticket holder, Kanye cleared up any possibility of mistaken identity by declaring his full name. "I'm Kanye-mothaf-in-West!" he said. And no one's arguing that.

5 Grass is greener. Hashtag "cannabis" has been trending on Twitter, and not just because weed-smokers repeatedly tweeted while forgetting they had. Ganja is making news because public appeal for legalization is growing, while staunch opposers recycle archaic myths of reefer madness as they guzzle their spirit of choice. "It's a gateway drug," they say. Yes, the gateway to procrastination and poor gastronomical decisions. And last I checked, neither one of those is criminal.

6 Heading south. U.S. private-equity firm Bain Capital has managed to overtake one of our country's great national treasures: Canada Goose. Current president Dani Reiss says that the corporation intends to maintain the high standards for outerwear that his family worked hard to create, and that they will continue to be made in Canada. Oh good, so we still won't be able to afford them.

7 Hallelujah. Time magazine's Person of the Year goes to Pope Francis! The people's pontiff was chosen for refocusing the church away from condemnation and back to basics like mercy, compassion and maybe even smoking weed.

8 This week in music. On Dec. 12, 1957, rock 'n' roll icon Jerry Lee Lewis, who was still married to his first wife, secretly wed his 13-year-old second cousin Myra Gale Brown. This "degenerate trifecta" raised interesting public debate about which was more disturbing: the bigamy, the incest or the statutory rape. Now, that's what I call some Great Balls of Fire.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug is more of an Unexpected Journey — only one that doesn't really go anywhere. HANDOUT

This Hobbit is hobbling

The Desolation of Smaug. J.R.R. Tolkien fans will surely geek out on the latest installment but one of the Reel Guys couldn't care less about the film

Richard: Mark, despite the sense of mild confusion I felt as I tried to piece the story together, I really enjoyed The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug. It took a lot of back-story to get to the fifth film based on Middle-earth and its inhabitants and it will help if you know your Shire from your Sauron or your Skin Changers.

But having said that, Peter Jackson has crafted a great action adventure with the same consistency of tone, style and spirit that runs through the LOTR and Hobbit movies. They feel like story shards chipped off the same block.

Mark: Richard, there are two kinds of people in this world — those who admire and enjoy the work of J.R.R. Tolkien, and those who are repelled by his neo-medieval, Druidic nonsense.

You can guess which camp I fall into. I sat through the Rings trilogy under great duress, and skipped the first Hobbit entirely. So the only question was how much I would loathe this picture. The good news is: not that much. True, the entire movie and everyone in it needs a haircut, but the set pieces worked, especially the barrel escape down the river and the entire dragon sequence. But the movie felt so long I could have flown to Tokyo for dinner and gotten back in time for the end credits.

RC: I think fans will find the length just about right... non-fans, maybe not so much. This one worked for me. There's a Richard Attenborough old school epicness about it. It is about good and evil without troubling nuance or anti-heroes.

Perhaps because Englishman Tolkien penned these action adventure stories during the Second World War when evil was clear-cut, his books are ripe with allegory but straightforward in their approach to morality and good vs. evil.

MB: A good point, but maybe it's precisely that serious, hectoring tone that always turned me off. Evangeline Lilly, on the other hand, did not turn me off — quite the opposite.

She really holds the screen even if her ears need cosmetic surgery. But the ending — a cliffhanging cheat, if you ask me — elicited a collective groan from the audience and made the experience feel incomplete. Did you like the dark look of the picture?

RC: I did like the look. It's darker in tone than the Hobbit books for sure, but I thought it suited Peter Jackson's take on the story. I also liked the Walking Dead style battle scenes — lots of arrows in heads.

MB: I kept hoping for someone to show up with a gun and put them all out of my misery.

Lots of talent, but little gold to go around

Golden Globes noms.

It's a crowded field and the Hollywood Foreign Press doesn't seem to know what funny is

Metro World News in Hollywood

Awards season is officially here, thanks to the announcements of the Golden Globe nominations, and the best word to describe this year's crop is crowded. So crowded, in fact, that some heavy hitters have been almost left out.

Steve McQueen's 12 Years a Slave is still considered the lead favourite, with nominations for the film itself, director McQueen, stars Chiwetel Ejiofor, Michael Fassbender and Lupita Nyong'o, screenwriter John Ridley and composer Hans Zimmer.

But with such a crowded year it's easy for votes to get split. At least McQueen doesn't have to worry about David O. Russell's nomination-heavy

Zoe Saldana, Aziz Ansari and Olivia Wilde have a laugh before announcing the noms for the Golden Globes on Thursday in California. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American Hustle until the Oscars, as the Hollywood Foreign Press (HFPA) have placed it in the musical or comedy category (see sidebar).

Though it earned several nominations earlier in the week from the Screen Actors Guild, Lee Daniels' the Butler didn't garner a mention — not even for Oprah Winfrey, despite the HFPA's starstruck reputation. And while Martin Scorsese's Wolf of Wall Street nabbed nominations for the film and star Leonardo DiCaprio, it didn't make the cut in any other major category. Sorry, Scorsese.

Ejiofor, Idris Elba and Julia

Louis-Dreyfus will be pulling double duty come the night of the awards, with nominations in both the film and television categories. And ceremony co-host Amy Poehler might have to take a break to make an acceptance speech, as she's up for her work on Parks and Recreation.

But what's most noteworthy about the television nominations is what and who didn't get nominated. The HFPA obviously didn't respond to the most recent season of Mad Men, as the series didn't score a single nod. Neither did HBO's Game of Thrones or Showtime's

That's not funny!

The HFPA is earning more than the usual amount of criticism this year for its musical or comedy film categories not really honouring musicals or comedy. Some of the films filling the top category — best picture musical or comedy (American Hustle, Her, Inside Llewyn Davis, Nebraska and The Wolf of Wall Street) shouldn't really be considered comedies, critics are arguing. Producers have been criticized in the past for positioning serious fare in the comedy category to increase a film's chances.

Homeland. And while Downtown Abbey earned a nomination for the series itself, none of the cast — not even Maggie Smith — warranted a mention.

The Golden Globes will be awarded during a televised ceremony Jan. 12, four days before the Academy Awards nominations are announced.

Great Odin's Raven! Burgundy is back

Anchorman 2.

Will Ferrell swore he'd never make a sequel ... OK maybe just one

LIZ BROWN
liz.brown@metronews.ca

There's a stack of magazines sitting on the coffee table of Will Ferrell's suite at Toronto's Carlton-Ritz and as we settle down to chat in the plush chairs, the glossy one on top grabs his attention. He picks it up and flourishes his hand across its cover — a picture of a panda munching on a bamboo shoot.

"How apropos that there's a panda on the cover of this magazine, which was the big story in the first Anchorman. The panda story," he reminisces. "It's too bad they're almost extinct now. But let's not talk about that."

Indeed. Time is of the essence and Ferrell's got a few more upbeat things to wax about — like Anchorman 2 and his whirlwind promotion tour.

Anchorman 2 brings its style, class and fine taste in scotch to theatres next Wednesday. CONTRIBUTED

Prior to touching down in Toronto earlier this month, he'd pulled a few Ron Burgundy stunts — co-anchoring a local newscast in Bismarck, N.D., and co-hosting the Roar of the Rings curling tournament in Winnipeg. But it's all a labour of love for Ferrell, who together with his co-writer Adam McKay, once swore they'd never do sequels — a claim with an asterisk for one special movie. "We would always have this sidebar conversation where it was 'well, if we ever were to do a sequel one day, it would probably be Anchorman," he says.

The original Anchorman reached almost cult-like status when it came out on DVD nearly 10 years ago. For a time, its jokes were fodder for every armchair comic. "People just started falling in love with this movie on a different level after repeat viewings," says Ferrell.

In Anchorman 2, Ron Burgundy and his reunited crew (Paul Rudd, Steve Carell, David Koechner) face a new decade — the '80s — with new challenges:

a 24-hour cable news channel and — gasp — a female African American boss. In terms of joke density, Anchorman 2 packs in as many as the first and even more cameos. Kanye West, Will Smith, Amy Poehler, Tina Fey, Liam Neeson and Harrison Ford are just a fraction of the big names in the film.

"That's the love people have for Anchorman. We kept hearing from people and had them reaching out to us."

Ferrell says they even set their sights on Brad Pitt, who he wanted to play Ron Burgundy's pretty boy nemesis — anchor Jack Lime — but when Pitt declined, Ferrell and McKay brought in James Marsden. "We just did an informal read-through of the script to see how jokes were playing and Marsden read that part and we were like 'he's the guy,'" he says.

Ferrell adds the filmmaking felt more like a reunion party. "Just being back in our outfits, everyone felt really sentimental and it was like, 'wow, we're actually going to do this again.'"

"It's cliché sounding but I don't know if I've worked more closely with any cast, the way we get along and how we have this shared sense of letting each other be funny all at the same time and there's no real competition. That's rare."

Barron Hilton beating

Paris-Lindsay smackdown still has legs

It looks like Lindsay Lohan might not be in the clear just yet for the alleged beating of Barron Hilton in Miami last week, as the hotel heir — and younger brother to Paris Hilton — had his lawyer reach out to Miami Beach police to discuss their investigation, according to Radar Online.

"A meeting is being scheduled for Mr. Hilton to give a formal statement about the incident," a police spokesman says. Hilton reportedly wants Lohan's friend Ray LeMoine charged for the attack, but he'd initially backed off. "He has been made aware that there are incriminating photos that, if released, could tell a very different side of what took place," a source says. While Lohan hasn't currently been implicated in the incident, sources say Hilton believes she ordered LeMoine to beat him up.

Investigation into Walker crash could take 90 days

Funeral services will be held this weekend for Paul Walker, but the cause of the Nov. 30 car crash that claimed the lives of the Fast and Furious star and his friend, Roger Rodas, could remain a mystery for up to 90 days as authorities investigate, according to the Hollywood

Reporter. A police spokesman says that any reports at this point about what caused the Porsche Carrera GT Rodas was driving to strike a light pole, two trees and a street sign are purely speculative. A coroner's report has already ruled the deaths to be accidental.

Gather all ye around a video game

For Metro

Video games continue to be a hot holiday gift for both young and old. Here are some of the top titles for all ages this holiday season.

The Last of Us — PS3

This character-driven action adventure is easily one of the best games for the Playstation 3 this year. A virus spreads across the U.S., turning the population into deadly abominations. An unlikely duo must make their way across a post-pandemic U.S. in the unlikely hope of bringing it all to an end. While the game is amazing, the language and fright factor means mature gamers only.

Beyond: Two Souls — PS3

An incredible psychological action-thriller featuring the voices of Canada's own Ellen Page, along with William Dafoe. A young woman possesses supernatural powers through a psychic link to an invisible entity. This game is completely different from any other on the market. Features incredible storytelling, playing out more as a movie than an action game.

Grand Theft Auto 5 — Xbox 360, PS3

Take on the role of three criminals in the latest instalment of this controversial franchise. GTA 5 features one of the largest and diverse open worlds to discover. Fight rival street gangs, pull off dramatic heists or simply explore the vast city of Los Santos. This groundbreaking series is filled with violence and coarse language so don't even consider purchasing this for youngsters. Mature gamers only.

Super Mario 3D World — Wii U

The perfect game to play as a family. Super Mario 3D World is the first 3D Mario platformer for Nintendo's Wii U console. Play as Mario, Luigi, Princess Peach or Toad as you overcome wildly creative obstacles. Get ready for new power-ups like the cat suit and, of course, new never-seen-before enemies like sand Goombas.

Far Cry 3 — Xbox 360, PS3

Stranded in a tropical paradise and fighting to survive, Far Cry 3 brings incredible game play with one of the most memorable villains. Explore an island full of secrets and use the environment to craft items and weapons to help you survive.

Assassin's Creed IV: Black Flag — Multiple consoles

Take the helm of your ship and live the life of a pirate. Explore open waters and dive for treasure in this historical action-adventure featuring many figures from the golden age of piracy. This franchise has been a favourite, and the latest instalment looks absolutely gorgeous.

Batman Arkham Origins — Xbox 360, PS3

Taking place before the rise of Gotham's most dangerous villains and assassins, this game features a young Batman still in the early stages of his career as a crime fighter. This title introduces the notorious villains Batman will find himself fighting for years to come. A must-have for comic book lovers on your list.

Light the season fantastic

MICHELLE
WILLIAMS
For Metro

It's time to drag out the holiday lights for another season. Tired of those same awkward strings of finicky lights that are so difficult to hang year after year?

Check out the latest illuminating options.

Clip-ons. One of the most frustrating things about hanging lights is getting them to actually stay in place.

"Usually, you have to purchase and attach clips separately," said Brian Rattray, general manager of two Toronto-based Canadian Tire stores. "Noma Quick Clip LED Lights are new this year. Whether you hang your outdoor lights on a tree, a gutter or a fence, the clips are heavy-duty and attach to just about anything to make hanging lights a lot easier."

Laser illumination. If you want to skip the lights — or enhance your outdoor decor — you can add a Bliss Laser Light Stake to project the look of lights on your house or on a tree.

"It gives the appearance of mini-lights all over the house," Rattray said. "Just stake it into the ground and you're done. It's much like a floodlight in its simplicity."

It's time to light up the neighbourhood. MAP 1273/SHUTTERSTOCK

Let it snow. A new product called Light Flurries works on the same principle. It's a small flood light that casts light into a box containing a mirrored ball, which, in turn, projects the look of snow falling on your house.

"Using Light Flurries is a simple way to create the illusion of snow falling and to give your house a real holiday feel," Rattray said.

Holiday parade. Another way to light up your lawn is with popular inflatables and wire forms. Inflatables blow up using an air pump built in to the bottom.

"They also have lights in them, so they have built-in spotlighting," Rattray said.

Wire-form decorations (snowflakes, ornaments or animals) that light up can hang and sit on your lawn.

"Inflatables and wire forms are easy. They come in dozens of fun designs and light up to look great, day and night."

A final tip. Before hanging up lights, check them to be sure they work.

GIFTS OF HOPE: WHEN GIVING IS RECEIVING

Two years ago, Ginger and Scott McClelland decided to see if they could make Christmas a little bit more about giving than receiving. After going through a Gifts of Hope catalogue they had received in the mail, the Ottawa couple chose baby chicks to give to all of their grandchildren.

Gifts of Hope are ethical gifts, which means they give twice — here and abroad. Ginger and Scott felt these gifts were the perfect way to introduce a special kind of holiday giving to their grandchildren. Once the four children, who ranged in age from 10 to 14, had opened the gift card with the picture of a fluffy baby chick on the front, Ginger and Scott explained how the chicks would help support a family in Africa.

“And the kids got very excited very quickly about the gift,” Ginger says. “The youngest, Emma, even sent a letter to Santa Claus asking him to make sure the gift got to the family on time.”

But the best part of the story was yet to come.

When Christmas came around the following year, the adults in the family agreed that they would exchange Gifts of Hope. However, during the gift exchange the really big surprise was that the four kids had decided that they would exchange Gifts of Hope with each other as well.

“All in all, I think we gave 12 Gifts of Hope, ranging from newborn checkup and a bed net to chicks, a goat, three hens and a rooster,” Ginger says. “Our gift to each other was literacy training for two women.

“Sometimes you look at what happens at Christmas and think ‘we may be missing the whole point,’” Scott says. “But it was a very emotional and special Christmas last year, and I was incredibly proud of my family.”

Gifts of Hope provided everyone in the McClelland family a wonderful way to help make someone else’s life a little better and to feel good about it.

“Gifts of Hope really are a unique gift-giving opportunity,” says Sangita Patel, director of program management at Plan Canada.

“For people who purchase a gift, it’s a way to give a socially conscious gift and to avoid crowded malls. For the recipient, the gift is contributing to important work overseas. For the children of the community that receives the gift, it’s about changing and improving their lives.”

Plan Canada is one of the world’s oldest est and largest international development agencies. Founded in 1937, it works in 69 countries and more than 90,000 communities around the world. Gifts of Hope is Plan Canada’s increasingly popular year-round ethical giving program, especially popular during the holiday period.

For parents — and grandparents like the McClellands — a Gift of Hope is a great tool to very gently and in a positive way expose children to what life is like for other children in other places, Patel says.

“They provide such a nice teachable moment for kids amidst the holiday rush.”

Gifts of Hope support Plan Canada programs in the areas of education, health, clean water, and livelihoods.

Fifteen of the gifts are also designated as “Because I am a Girl” gifts, which go to support the work Plan does that directly benefits girls and women.

“These gifts help to unleash the power of girls and women to create a brighter, safer future for girls in the developing world,” Patel says.

Gifts suit any budget, ranging in price from $10 for anti-malaria bed nets to $75 for a goat to $1,000 for water and sanitation for communities. Sometimes the dollar value of the gift is matched by a government, foundation or corporate partner for even more impact.

“It’s a great way to show care for what’s happening in other places,” Patel says. “And to show children how one gift can make lives better for other kids and families.”

One of the McClelland’s grandchildren, Ben, 14, says that the Gift of Hope chicks seemed “kind of weird” at first.

“But after I learned more about it, it felt like you could really help other people, and it was nice to be giving something rather than always just getting a lot.”

DOUBLING DONATIONS DURING THE HOLIDAYS

As a Saskatchewan-based company, PotashCorp is committed to issues of food security and tackling hunger in the province.

Again this holiday season, PotashCorp launched a $1-million matching gift campaign to support food banks. The company is matching every dollar donated to food banks in Saskatchewan through Jan. 15, 2014, up to a maximum of $1 million.

Since 2010, these annual matching gift campaigns, combined with PotashCorp's support, have raised more than $6.5 million to provide nutritious food to those in need at a total of 35 food banks.

"We recognize that food security isn't just an issue for communities overseas," says said Lee Knafelc, PotashCorp's vice-president, human resources and administration. "Our neighbours in communities across this province also worry about feeding their families. Saskatchewan's food banks know this all too well and PotashCorp is pleased to play a role in building our community by supporting the campaign again this year."

According to the national Hunger-Count 2013 report, Saskatchewan has experienced a 26.6 per cent increase in food bank usage since 2008, and 43.8 per cent of individuals assisted by food banks are children.

The report also discusses how regions that experience rapid economic growth often have shortages of affordable rental units. Since 66.3 per cent of Saskatchewan's food bank users live in rental units, this increases their cost of living and leaves less money to spend on food.

The funds raised through the matching gift campaign will help food banks across the province buy supplies and equipment, restock shelves and provide support services.

PotashCorp has a history of engaging and educating about food security issues. Other examples of the company's commitment include co-founding the Global

SHOW THAT MEEWASIN MATTERS TO YOU

Saskatonians know that Meewasin makes Saskatoon a better place to live. Along with its work of conservation and education, Meewasin has been building trail in the Meewasin Valley for 35 years. Close to one million visits are made to the trail annually, and this is increasing dramatically each year. For recreation, physical activity and active transportation, there is no greater asset to our city than the Meewasin Trail.

Meewasin is planning to create a "Destination Trail" in Saskatchewan, extending the existing Meewasin Trail north to Wanuskewin and south to Chief Whitecap Park. This extension will add 16 kilometres to the existing 14 kilometres of trail. This is also part of an initiative to link the country through the Trans Canada Trail by 2017 for Canada's 150th birthday.

Meewasin recently launched Meewasin Matters, an $8-million fundraising campaign to secure the resources to build this new trail. Meewasin's team of volunteers has been working hard to raise the required funds, with just less than $2 million more to go.

Show that Meewasin Matters to you and become part of this initiative.

Donations of cash or stock can be made directly to Meewasin to support the campaign. Bricks, trees, shrubs or benches can make great gifts for loved ones this holiday season. For more information, contact Betty at 306-665-6887.

BRING CHRISTMAS TO THE YWCA ALL YEAR ROUND

YWCA Saskatoon's annual Christmas campaign helps support the YWCA crisis shelter and residence all year.

"Our goal is to raise significant financial support for the crisis shelter and residence to create a wonderful holiday experience and to sustain the shelter into the new year," says Joy-Ann Allin, director of development and communications. "This is why we call it Christmas 365."

The campaign, which began Dec. 1, offers three ways to give, Allin says.

First, cash donations designated "Adopt a Room" provide emergency shelter, counselling, and preventative services for an individual woman, family, or young girl staying in Margaret's Place, or a woman staying at Turning Points transitional housing.

Second, people can host a small fundraising event called a "Social Good party" at their homes or businesses. At these "parties with a purpose," the hostess gift becomes a donation to the YWCA.

Third, people can donate new, unwrapped gift items for women and children at six YWCA Christmas 365 drop-off locations around the city.

"Because of these donations, a mother and her children will wake up at the YWCA crisis shelter on Christmas morning and find presents under the tree," Allin says.

As sure as Rudolph was a reindeer, you're going to feel some level of stress over the holidays — possibly when choosing a wine to match with your family feast.

Since Charles was a little Dickens, turkey has been the headliner. Unfortunately, the bird never travels alone. It's always surrounded by sweet and savoury sides that can throw a curve ball at even the most accommodating wine match.

If you're a white wine fan, think sparkling. A fresh bubbly is the great equalizer, pairing with just about everything (even if you decide on red meat or seafood this Xmas).

The classic turkey-meets-stuffing-meets-cranberry scenario that will play out on most tables is a lover of full-bodied chardonnay. Try one with a touch of oaky goodness from Australia, Chile, Canada or California.

Whites with a hint of residual sugar like savoury and sweet. The balanced, juicy fruit of Moselland's 2012 Ars Vitis Riesling ($9.95 - $16.99) is a guaranteed crowd pleaser that looks as good as it tastes.

Fancy doesn't have to mean complicated

Spinach-stuffed Chicken Thighs. This dish makes it possible to dazzle guests without much effort

1. In skillet over medium heat, wilt spinach until reduced. Let cool until easily handled, then squeeze moisture from spinach. Finely chop. You should have about 1/3 cup. Set aside.

2. Using paring knife, remove skin and bone from 2 chicken thighs. Place them in food processor and pulse until finely chopped. Add ice and process until absorbed. Add sour cream and pulse again until well mixed. Add spinach, 1/2 teaspoon salt, fennel, lemon zest, nutmeg and 1/8 teaspoon black pepper. Pulse, scraping down sides, until mixed. Set aside.

3. Arrange remaining thighs on cutting board, skin side up. Carefully pull back skin, leaving attached on one end. Divide ground chicken and spinach mixture evenly between 6 thighs, spreading it evenly. Stretch skin back over filling on each thigh. Arrange stuffed thighs on plate, cover with plastic wrap and chill for at least 1 hour and up to overnight.

4. When ready to cook, heat the oven to 400 F. In oven-safe skillet over medium-high, heat the oil. Season chicken skin lightly with salt and pepper, then add the chicken to the skillet, skin side down. Cook until skin is golden brown, then use tongs to turn thighs skin side up. Place skillet in the oven and roast for 25 minutes, or until the thighs reach 160 F.

5. Remove skillet from the oven and cover with foil. Let rest 5 minutes before transferring each thigh to serving plate.

Spoon any juices from skillet over the thighs before serving. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/SARA MOULTON'S EVERYDAY FAMILY DINNERS.

Give your green beans Italian flare

1. In nonstick frying pan, heat oil and 1 tsp (5 ml) of the butter over medium heat until butter melts. Add shallots, salt and sugar. Cook, stirring frequently, 10 minutes or until golden brown and caramelized. If necessary, add 1 tbsp (15 ml) of water to prevent sticking. Stir in balsamic vinegar. Cook 30 seconds or until reduced; set aside.

2. Meanwhile, in pot of boiling salted water, cook beans for 3 to 5 minutes or until tender-crisp. Drain well. Return to pot; toss with remaining 2 tsp (10 ml) butter until butter is melted and beans are coated. Stir in shallot mixture until combined. Transfer to serving dish; sprinkle with shaved Parmigiano.

Blake Wheeler scored twice, Michael Frolik added another and Grant Clitsome had a pair of assists for Winnipeg (14-4-5).

Duchene scored his second goal of the night to give the Avalanche a 3-2 lead with 1.6 seconds left in the second period when he backhanded a rebound into the open side of the net as goalie Ondrej Pavelec tried to slide back.

But Winnipeg used its fifth power play to tie the game 3-3 at 10:00 of the third period

Could Flames firing improve junior team?

Sean Monahan has nine goals and six assists with the Flames in his rookie season. GETTY IMAGES

Canada's national junior team has its eyes on Calgary rookie Sean Monahan again after the Flames shook up their front office Thursday.

They had already been told Monahan would not be loaned for the Dec. 26-Jan. 3 world junior championship, but that was before Flames president of hockey operations Brian Burke fired general manager Jay Feaster.

Scott Salmond, the junior squad's director of hockey operations, said it won't hurt to ask again if the gifted forward is available, even if it may be a longshot.

"A no is a no whether it comes from Brian Burke or Jay," said Salmond. "Out of respect for Brian we'll go back and ask again. I'm sure Brian was part of the original decision. Whether things change or not will be up to the Calgary Flames, but it's worth a try."

The junior team is also hoping to bring Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman Morgan Rielly back for a second world junior tournament, but so far the Leafs have been reluctant to let him go. The NHL club is expected to make a decision by Tuesday.

The juniors have already got rearguard Mathew Dumba from the Minnesota Wild.

Another question hanging as players arrived a few at a time for a three-day camp in Toronto was the health of Halifax Mooseheads star forward Jonathan Drouin, who suffered a concussion last week.

Drouin said he is feeling better and hopes to be cleared by team doctors to skate in camp. He was to be examined Thursday night. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wave of change hits CFL in 2014

A new team, new stadiums and new rivalries are just some of the things that await football fans, with the 2014 CFL season promising more changes than any in recent years.

The season just finished may have had a storybook ending for the Saskatchewan Roughriders, who won their fourth Grey Cup on home turf, but it was a challenge for many other teams in the CFL.

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers lived up to their name, bombing big time in their spiffy new stadium as they went 3-15. Even Investors Group Field showed cracks, very literally, and less than a year after it opened, renovations are taking place to the open-air press box so the city can at some point soon host a Grey Cup.

And the Montreal Alouettes got a peek at life without veteran quarterback Anthony Calvillo and it wasn't pretty.

But tomorrow is another day and here are a few things expected when the 2014 season gets underway:

Welcome black: The Ottawa RedBlacks will return the CFL to the nation's capital. The CFL has been an eight-team league since the Ottawa Renegades suspended operations before the 2006 season.

Do I hear 10? The CFL is staying Canadian this time, but it doesn't want to stop at nine teams. The league is looking for a 10th host city, perhaps Moncton or Halifax.

New stadiums: Besides the RedBlacks' remodelled stadium at Lansdowne, the Hamilton Tiger-Cats plan to christen Tim Hortons Field in 2014, after spending a vagabond construction season as tenants of the University of Guelph. The Saskatchewan Roughriders are expecting their new $278-million digs to be football-ready by 2017.

New coaches: The league will see some first-time new head coaches in 2014. Edmonton and Winnipeg both have new coaches in 2014 after finishing seventh and eighth in league standings in 2013. Former Argonauts defensive co-ordinator Chris Jones landed his first CFL head coaching job in Edmonton in late November and the Bombers then tabbed Argos special-teams co-ordinator Mike O'Shea for his first top spot. The Ottawa RedBlacks picked Calgary defensive co-ordinator Rick Campbell to lead their debut in the league.

Hockey. Dan Church says there wasn't confidence in him leading the squad to another Olympic gold Dan Church abruptly stepped down as head coach of the Canadian women's hockey team saying he felt others lacked confidence in his ability to win a gold medal at the Winter Olympics.

Church resigned from the job Thursday less than two months before the opening ceremonies of the Winter Games in Sochi, Russia.

"If there isn't confidence in what I'm doing, I need to step aside and let the team move on," Church told The Canadian Press in a phone interview. "I'm heartbroken, to be honest, about the whole situation."

He did not specify whether it was players or Hockey Canada management who questioned his competence.

"Just discussions I'd had over the last few days made that apparent, in some meetings I'd had with leadership," Church said. "I think it was just difference of opinion on the direction we were headed."

"In the end, I just decided if I'm getting in the way of where the team needs to go, I need to step aside and let them continue on in the process."

The move was a bombshell as the 21-player Olympic team was expected to be announced before the end of December. The Canadian women will attempt to win a fourth straight gold medal in Sochi after victories in 2002, 2006 and 2010.

Soccer. Sinclair boots Canada past Scotland

Christine Sinclair celebrated her 200th appearance with Canada's women's soccer team with a goal in a 2-0 win over Scotland at the Torneo Internacional de Futebol Feminino on Thursday.

The goal was the 147th of Sinclair's career, and she could have had two if her penalty shot in the first half wasn't saved.

"The win felt incredible and that was the most important thing to come out of today," said Sinclair. "Not only the victory but the way our team played, I thought it was the best we've played all year."

Adrianna Leon opened the scoring just eight minutes into the game on a volley off a headed pass from Sophie Schmidt.

Sinclair scored 13 minutes into the second half when she was played in on the left side and had plenty of time to put the ball past Scottish goalkeeper Gemma Fay, who was 1-on-1 against Sinclair.

Canada's next game in the tournament takes place Sunday when they take on Chile. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Holden sails to stage win in gruelling endurance race

The crew celebrates after Canadian skipper Eric Holden guided the Henri Lloyd to its first win of the world's longest ocean race on Friday morning in Sydney, Australia. The 33-year-old from Vancouver and his crew won Race 5 of the 16-race Clipper Round the World Yacht Race to maintain their first-place spot overall in what's considered the toughest global endurance challenge. The race visits 12 countries, covering 64,373.8 kilometres over 11 months. HANDOUT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

A decision you made a long time ago doesn't seem like a great idea now but you're stuck with it. Make the best of the situation and promise yourself you won't be so hasty in future.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Expect your workload to increase a lot over the next 24 hours. That may not sound like good news but at least it shows that important people trust you to get the job done.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

It may seem to others that you never lack confidence but that's not true and as the Sun moves through your opposite sign there will be times of self-doubt. Bite back — hard.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You will get what you deserve today: no more and no less. Jupiter in your sign links with Saturn in a way that guarantees you get out of life in direct proportion to what you've put in. And you've put in a lot.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You may have to do something that makes you unpopular today but that won't worry you. You know there are times when you have to put duty before pleasure and this is clearly one of them. Do it well.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Saturn may be casting a cloud over money matters but you can still have fun. Besides, if you keep a tight hold of the purse strings now you will have more to spend over the holiday period and party season.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Don't over-extend yourself at work or your energy may take a nose-dive early next week. Today's Jupiter-Saturn link will help you to persuade others to do things for you.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

According to the planets you will do better, both financially and emotionally, if you open up and let friends and family members know how you feel and what it is you need.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Why is it that people are so demanding? Most likely it's because they know you are too nice to say "no". At some stage today you need to get tough and let certain people know they have to do more.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Your frustration may get the better of you and you will say or do something that gets you noticed for the wrong reason. At least others will be aware that you're not afraid to hit back at provocation.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Accept that you won't get things your way all the time, especially at work where some people seem to take a delight in being unreasonable. It's only a passing phase.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Jupiter and Saturn link across the most favourable angles of your chart today and the most likely outcome is that you will be rewarded for services you have done for others in the past. SALLY BROMPTON
